

Harlem Renaissance

*1920s and 1930s

*African American artists, musicians, actors/actresses, writers, etc. were being recognized in cities like New York and Chicago for their talents.

*Langston Hughes lived in Harlem during this time period.

*African Americans moved from the South to the northern cities to escape poverty, racism, and begin to be treated like human beings.

*It was a time where Jazz and Blues music was popular.
